HAMILTON SQ. STATION UPGRADE

Built in the winter of 1886 Hamilton Square Station, Birkenhead, is a grade II listed building. As part of the station's 4 million pound refurbishment programme, Quiligotti's Quil-Nazzo range (20,500 Sq. Ft.) has been specified for the project which is due to open in March 2015. Quil-Nazzo is a unique, slip resistant high density terrazzo tile designed by Quiligotti specifically for mass transit projects. The project Architect (AHR) opted for Quil-Nazzo Terrazzo, as competing products that may provide the necessary slip resistance had proved difficult to clean. Quil-Nazzo tiles have a 5% carborundum content to its full depth enabling superior slip test results to be achieved. Independent tests showed slip test readings in the region of 45 in wet conditions when tested with a TRL pendulum, fitted with a '96' rubber slider. The test is recognised as the industry standard for hard floor surfaces.
